CONFERENCE ON COLLEGE COMPOSITION AND COMMUNICATION

The 1995 convention of the CCCC will take place at the Grand Hyatt in Washington, D.C., March 22-25. This year's theme will be literacies, technologies, and responsibilities. Almost 400 concurrent sessions will address teaching and learning, theory and research, administrative and professional issues, and educational policies and practices within a variety of institutions and cultural contexts. Concurrent sessions will take the form of panel presentations, roundtable discussions, or forums.

Convention offerings include: workshops on March 22 and 25; the CCCC Computer Connection, a sampling of innovative uses of computers in teaching writing from March 23-25; and the Two-Year College Strand Breakfast, which provides the opportunity for two-year college professors to meet with colleagues and publisher's representatives on March 25.

For more information, contact: Membership Service Representative
NCTE, 1111 W.Kenyon Road. Urbana
IL 61801-1096
